The Holiday Spirit – From Harried to Heartfelt

Tips and Treasures for Caregivers

Jan Sturges, Caregiving Coordinator, M.Ed., LPC, UA Life & Work Connections

- Mindfulness – Focus on the intrinsic values of the holidays – stay connected to people and relationships – and participate in one or two meaningful events (not ten or fifteen!) that will nourish you, your family and friends. Instead of cooking a large meal, host a pot-luck party, attend a holiday concert or participate in a faith celebration.

- Compassionate presence - Set aside time to include the elder or dependent person in practical, but meaningful, non stress-producing activities. Even if they are not able to participate or converse at length, your compassionate presence and ‘being’ vs. ‘doing’ will create a caring bond.

- Priorities - Set realistic expectations for activities and gift-giving based on your resources – people (family, friends, community resources, and professional health care providers), time, finances and energy.

- Traditions – Decide what past traditions are no longer appropriate, and develop a few new ones. Combine some of the ‘old’ with the ‘new’ and create a different set of holiday traditions without comparing them to ‘the way it used to be.’

- Affirmations – Be kind, and acknowledge disappointment without judging yourself or others when life gets messy during the holiday rush.

- Self-care -
  - Eat, drink and be merry, but not too much! Balance sugar and alcohol intake with healthier foods.
  - Allow yourself a ‘time out’ every day. Take four deep breaths, walk around the yard, read a few pages of a book or listen to music. (Really, you can do this!!)
  - Arrange for someone to stay with the person in your care while you attend a social event, or complete some of the tasks on your simplified ‘To Do’ list.
  - Find a supportive listener to help you solve problems that arise, or express your feelings about caregiving during the holidays. Remind yourself that it is normal to have mixed feelings at this time of year.

- Humor – Give the gift of laughter to yourself and others, and relax!
